PROFESSIONAL PROFILE

I help people and businesses solve problems by combining technology, creativity and systems thinking. Every problem has a human story behind it, and understanding that story is often the first step to finding the right solution. Technology is never just hardware or software — throughout my career I've built lasting client relationships by listening carefully, seeing challenges from the customer's side, and delivering solutions that feel simple, reliable and natural.

I naturally think from the finished outcome backwards: I visualise the completed project first, then reverse engineer the simplest, most practical path to get there. This lets me cut through complexity, anticipate problems early, and build solutions that hold up over time.

Photography taught me that the most important details are often the easiest to overlook — a habit of observation, honed since 1987, that still shapes how I approach technology, business and problem solving.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Network Field Technician — WisperNet

2025 – Present

- Wireless network installation, troubleshooting and customer support across Prince Albert and surrounding areas — my first formal employment after two decades of independent practice.

Independent Technology & Creative Practice — Self-Employed

2000 – Present

- Two decades spanning IT support and computer repair, network installation and maintenance, web design and development, and commercial and real estate photography.
- Founded and managed DataCom (computer repair and networking, 8 staff) and Mikro Stationery (retail operations, procurement and finance, 4 staff).
- Delivered SLA-backed IT support for small and medium enterprises, alongside household support for smartphones, smart TVs and home networks.

Risk Assessor — True Surveys & Assessments

2015 – 2016

- Conducted on-site security assessments and content surveys for private and business clients; managed scheduling, logistics and administrative reporting.

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- Founder & Director, Parys Arts Festival (Free State) — conceived, launched and single-handedly project-managed a first-of-its-kind 18-day festival in just 10 weeks, including an original dog-walk art event never staged anywhere in the world before. Drew 20,000+ gallery visitors and 130+ artists across 18 galleries, generated R150,000+ in art sales, and raised over R23,000 for local charities — the largest public event in the town's history.
- Designed and built a 9-metre yellowfish sculpture from local marble to raise awareness of the Vaal River and its endangered yellowfish population — now a permanent Parys landmark.
- Initiated and led a community mural project, securing sponsorship from local schools and businesses to transform a derelict town wall — now a local landmark.
- Winner, Best Poem — Carpe Noctem Digkunsakademie Afrikaanse Skeppende Poësie programme (2016).
